

Transition Youth Services

Vocational Rehabilitation Transition Youth Services help students with disabilities train for a job, continue their education, or find a job after high school. Under this program, every youth will have the opportunity to participate in sponsored career counseling, work readiness training, and fully integrated work experiences in the community.

These services are delivered while youth are still in high school and establish the foundation for a seamless transition to individualized training, education, and employment. (source: rehabworks.org)

Employers who are ready to hire new employees for permanent positions are encouraged to inquire about this program.

On The Job Training

On-the-Job Training is an opportunity for you, the employer, to mentor a person with a disability. By participating in OJT, you have the opportunity to see if the job and your business are a good fit with the trainee.

OJT is a training method where experienced employees take new employees under their wing, instructing and coaching them on how to perform their job, giving them the benefit of years of experience.

On the Job Training is provided to a paid participant while he or she is engaged in productive work in a job which:

- Increases knowledge or skills essential to the necessary performance of the job;
- Is identified as an appropriate service in the individual's employment plan;
- Is limited in duration as appropriate to the occupation for which the participant is being trained, accounting for the content of the training, the prior work experience of the participant, and the service strategy of the participant, as appropriate.

What We Offer With OJT
